Power Tools card

Aisles 5–8 (part of Hardware & Tools) · About 55 bays

Power Tools on homedepot.com

ESTIMATE	BEST GUESS	WHY
1 Label spots	About 1,650	55 bays × about 15 products a bay × 2 labels each. Many tools hang as a display model next to their boxed stock, like ceiling fans.
2 Price changes per product a year	About 15	A sale event most months, plus big holiday sales
3 Seconds per change, per label	About 45	Many tools sit in locked cases: unlock, find, swap, lock
4 Damage rate a year	5% (Low)	A calm indoor aisle

WHAT MAKES IT DIFFERENT

Lots of sales events, and many tools sit in locked cases.

ONE POSSIBLE QUESTION FOR THE HOME DEPOT

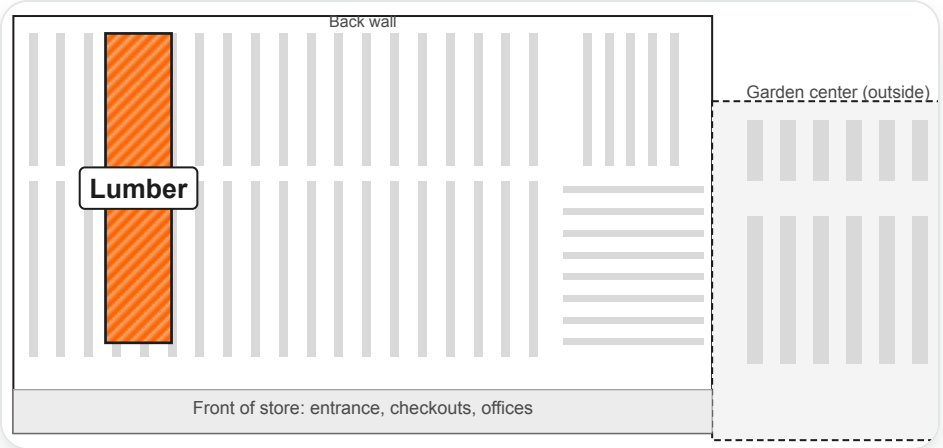

How many power tools sit in locked cases, and how long does a price change take there?

Lumber card

Aisles 16–18 and 23–25, plus lumber racks · 23 bays, plus about 570 ft of racks

Dimensional Lumber on homedepot.com

Prices follow the lumber market, and forklifts work these aisles.

ESTIMATE	BEST GUESS	WHY
1 Label spots	About 370	23 bays × about 10 products a bay, plus about 1 label every 4 feet of lumber rack (570 ÷ 4 ≈ 140)
2 Price changes per product a year	About 26 (every 2 weeks)	Lumber is priced off a market that's re-priced every week (Fastmarkets lumber prices). Store prices move more slowly than the market, so we guessed every 2 weeks.
3 Seconds per change, per label	About 40	Tall racks and long aisles add walking and reaching
4 Damage rate a year	25% (High)	Forklifts move lumber in these aisles

ONE POSSIBLE QUESTION FOR THE HOME DEPOT

How often do lumber prices really change in the store, and how often do forklifts damage rack labels?

Paint card

Aisles 10–12, plus the paint desk · 53.75 bays

Paint on homedepot.com

ESTIMATE	BEST GUESS	WHY
1 Label spots	About 2,150	53.75 bays × about 40 products a bay × 1 label each (cans, brushes and tape packed tight)
2 Price changes per product a year	About 3	About the store average (see page 5)
3 Seconds per change, per label	About 30	A normal aisle
4 Damage rate a year	5% (Low)	A calm indoor aisle

WHAT MAKES IT DIFFERENT

A calm aisle packed with products whose prices rarely change.

ONE POSSIBLE QUESTION FOR THE HOME DEPOT

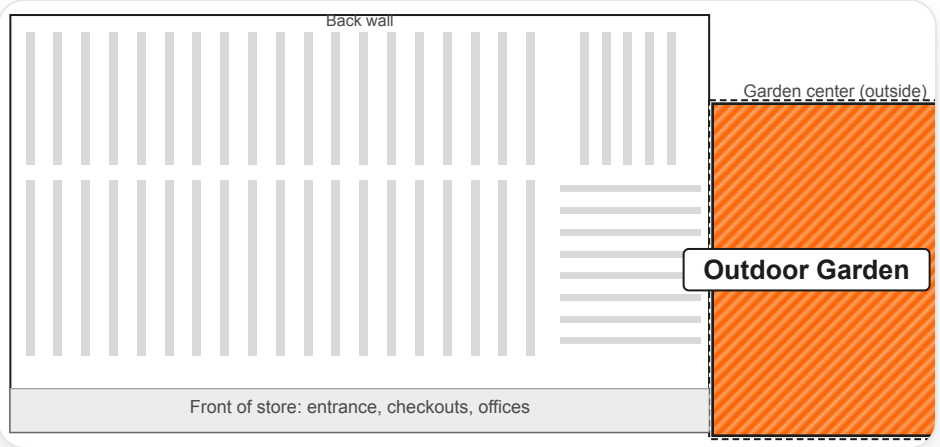

Are there paint products whose prices change often, like spray paint or seasonal sales?

Outdoor Garden card

The garden center (outside bays) · 120 bays

ESTIMATE	BEST GUESS	WHY
1 Label spots	About 1,800	120 bays × about 15 products a bay × 1 label each
2 Price changes per product a year	About 10	Plants and seasonal goods get marked down as they age and as the season ends
3 Seconds per change, per label	About 30	A normal aisle
4 Damage rate a year	25% (High)	Sun, rain, water hoses and carts

WHAT MAKES IT DIFFERENT

Prices drop as the season ends, and labels sit in sun and rain.

ONE POSSIBLE QUESTION FOR THE HOME DEPOT

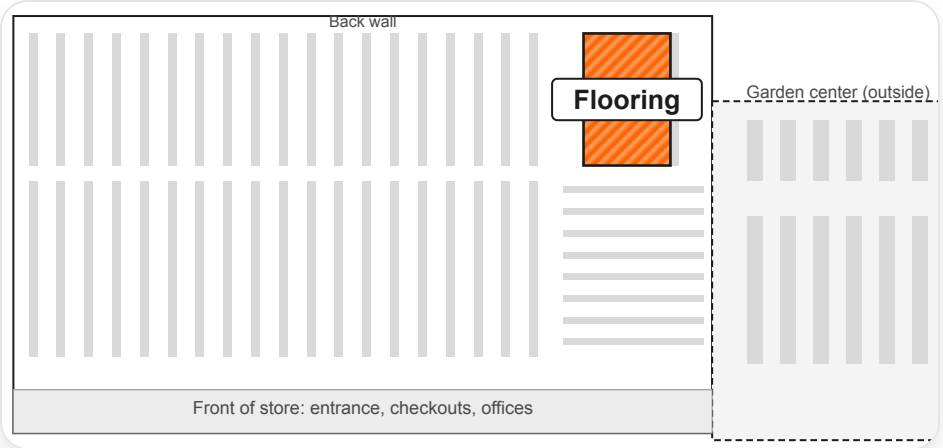

How many price changes do seasonal markdowns add, and do outdoor labels break more often?

Flooring card

Aisles 40–44 · 60.75 bays

Flooring on homedepot.com

ESTIMATE	BEST GUESS	WHY
1 Label spots	About 1,220	60.75 bays × about 20 products a bay × 1 label each (big boxes take more room)
2 Price changes per product a year	About 2	Everyday staples sold by the box, with few sales
3 Seconds per change, per label	About 30	A normal aisle
4 Damage rate a year	15% (Medium)	Pallet jacks and flat carts move heavy boxes

WHAT MAKES IT DIFFERENT

Heavy boxes on pallets, and prices that rarely change.

ONE POSSIBLE QUESTION FOR THE HOME DEPOT

How often do flooring prices change, and how often do carts and pallets hit labels?
